

DEATH OF HARRY LUDWICK

Word has been received in Estancia of the death of Harry E. Ludwick, at San Bernardino, California, on March 20, 1912, where he had gone in the hope that the change might prove beneficial to his failing health. Some five years ago, he with his family came to the Estancia valley, taking a homestead just west of Antelope Springs, coming from Pennsylvania, where indoor work had undermined his health and brought on an aggravated attack of asthma. The climate here seemed to ease his ailment and apparently he was improving. During the past year he thought his recovery might be hastened by a change and after proving up on his homestead, started west. The wife and two daughters, Mary and Christina went to Indiana to visit relatives until Mr. Ludwick should decide upon a location.

He had undergone several operations and thought himself improved thereby. On March 19, Mrs. Ludwick received a message that he was worse and started at once, but upon arrival in Chicago, a second message announced his death. The remains were shipped to Logansport, Indiana, where they were interred.

For several months Mr. Ludwick worked as reporter on the News, and became very well acquainted with practically all the people in and around Estancia. Everyone he met became a friend through his joviality and friendliness. The many friends here extend sympathy to the stricken family.

JUST ONE THING AFTER ANOTHER

Man comes into this world without his consent, and leaves it against his will. During his stay on earth his time is spent in one continuous round of contraries and misunderstandings by the balance of the species. In his infancy he is an angel; in his boyhood he is a devil; in his manhood he is everything from a lizard up; in his duties he is a darn fool; if he raises a family he is a chump; if he raises a small check he is a thief; and then the law raises the devil with him; if he is a poor man he is a poor manager and has no sense; if he is rich he is dishonest, but considered smart; if he is in politics you can't place him, as he is an undesirable citizen; if he goes to church he is a hypocrite; if he stays away from church he is a sinner and damned; if he donates to foreign missions he does it for show; if he doesn't he is stingy and a tight wad. When he first comes into this world everybody wants to kiss him; before he goes out they all want to kick him. If he dies young there was a great future before him; if he lives to a ripe old age he is simply in the way and living to save funeral expenses. This life is a funny road, but we all like to travel it just the same.

Not a Bad Precedent.

Some of the beauties of ancient Rome had marble busts sculptured of themselves, on which were placed different wigs corresponding to the changes of style and coloring. If modern woman followed suit there would be fewer atrocious coiffures.

A mirror should reveal unbecomingness, but it does not seem to do so. A bust of oneself, bedecked with chignon, psyche, Greek colls or the present daguerreotype disfigurations, could not fail to be a convincing proof of ourselves as others see us.

The greatest beauty cannot afford to trifle with her hairdressing. It is only the plain woman who boldly defies looks to be in the style.
